

Bella Luna offered Thanksgiving dinner with an Italian twist

Some have to have their traditional Thanksgiving turkey, but for those that don't, Italian cuisine was one choice for the holiday, and Bella Luna Restaurant in Palm Beach was the place to enjoy it. Even though Bella Luna offered a special holiday menu with all the fixings, for the Gaudesi families of Brookville, Long Island, they choose to stick to the standard menu. Brothers Joe and Frank, vacationing on Aruba for the holiday with their wives and children are originally from Sicily, and know their Italian food.

Being Thanksgiving, and having their families with them, they couldn't resist a small sampling of the holiday menu, at least for the kids, and the restaurant happily accommodated them with a complementary platter offering a taste of holiday treats. For the Gaudesi families, it was a fine holiday celebration, with pasta! Mange!
